

Pergola

Villa Pergola is a splendid private house built in a shabby chic style which is part of the Palazzo di Varignana estate and is immersed in the green hills of Bologna. It is the right choice for travelers who love nature and are looking for privacy and tranquility.

The house comfortably accommodates up to 12 guests with its large common areas overlooking an elegant external portico with a view of the Bologna skyline and four bright suites, each decorated in a different style. The 4000 sqm park includes a panoramic pool and two Jacuzzis.

The four rooms' name are inspired by the natural elements of the earth, that recall also the colors and materials of the rooms' furnishing.

On the ground floor there is the Ivory Suite, a material that is dominant in the room.

On the first floor, the two rooms Cobalt and Ardesia take the name of the two minerals with which the two dominant colors in the ceilings of the two suites, blue and gray-blue, were once created respectively.

Finally, the upstairs room, Graphite, recalls the evident traits of the wallpaper inspired by design sketches made with pencil.
